MAIL DISTRIBUTION SERVICES

OCTOBER 2, 2013 THROUGH AUGUST 31, 2017

RESPONSE: Requests for proposals were sent to 60 entities and two responses were received.

COMPARISON OF PROPOSALS:

See tabulation attached.

RECOMMENDATION FOR AWARD:

(47-month estimate) $300.000

AD-MAIL

BEST PROPOSAL

COMMENTS: This award is for mail distribution service plus related consulting services to assist campuses with mail preparation to maximize postal discounts in mailing brochures, class schedules, postcards, magazines, etc. The vendor will pick up printed materials from the printers, store them as needed, process the materials for mailing, and deliver them to the appropriate postal center. In addition, tracking and status reports regarding the mailed items will be provided, as well as mailing list acquisitions.

Proposals were evaluated based on the following key criteria as set forth in the request for proposal: (a) company's qualifications and experience, (b) management plan/client service plan, equipment, technology, quality programs, (c) ability to provide the services, (d) responses to the questionnaire, (e) completeness of proposal, and (f) benchmark pricing.

In the opinion of college evaluators, the recommended vendor best meets the needs of the district by providing a large variety of direct mail and related services through its network of subcontractors, including bar-coding of mail. Ad-Mail has been the district's contractor for several years and has provided excellent service. The proposal from the other bidder is not recommended due to pricing and it does not possess the software necessary to ensure district mailings receive all available postal discounts.

Student Success Special Report: El Centro College

Critical Thinking: Pathway to Student Success

A. Background/Context

El Centro College has selected to address the improvement of student learning by developing students' critical thinking skills. The college is focusing on three main goals:

- improving student learning through explicit teaching of critical thinking
- providing faculty with professional development on the methodology of teaching critical thinking
- assessing the teaching and learning of critical thinking.

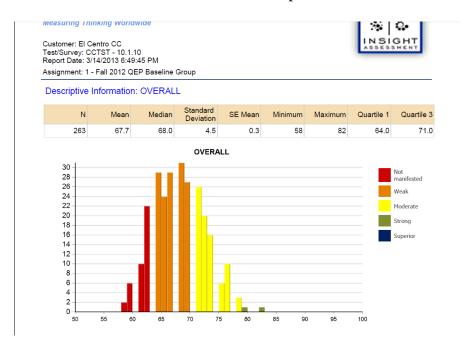

This initiative will impact all of our general education student population. The teaching and learning of critical thinking in all general education courses is a new requirement for the 2014 Core mandated by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB.) QEP committees were able to pool resources among students, faculty members, staff, and administrators to develop a plan to address the issue of enhancing students' critical thinking skills through the teaching of five critical thinking student learning outcomes. The outcomes are as listed below:

- 1. Apply critical thinking terms within a given context
- 2. Formulate pertinent questions that clarify and focus an issue
- 3. Evaluate the quality and relevance of information
- 4. Formulate well-reasoned conclusions and solutions
- 5. Implement continuous improvement in thought processes, through reflective thinking

The QEP improvement plan through the enhancement of teaching and learning critical thinking aligns closely to El Centro College's Strategic Plan Goal 1 on Student Success. The objective focuses on increasing success rates in developmental courses, increasing the number of associate degrees earned, and increasing by 33% the number of students earning core requirements for transfer. The college's strategic student success goals are the foundation of this improvement plan.

B. Initiatives/Actions

El Centro College's Quality Enhancement Plan began in Fall 2012 and will continue until Fall 2017. This plan began with an external benchmarking of El Centro College's students' critical thinking skills using a nationally normed test, the California Critical Thinking Skills Test. The test was administered to a cohort of 263 students in the Precore and Tier 1 classes. The overall result is represented below.

The majority of the students tested demonstrated thinking skills that are moderate and below.

ECC's Quality Enhancement implementation began with identifying a first cohort of courses that would pilot the plan. DREA 0093, ENGL 1301, EDUC 1300, PSYT 1313 and PSYC 2301 were chosen to be the first courses to pilot this plan in Spring 2013. Lead faculty members in each discipline area developed critical thinking toolkits and assessments for the pilot courses. For instance, an English Professor developed two critical thinking toolkits and assessment for ENGL1301that is aligned to the QEP SLO and master rubric. Critical thinking toolkits and assessments were deployed in all sections of the pilot courses. Faculty members were trained to teach using the toolkit and assess using the assessment tools that were developed by discipline leaders. Data from this implementation was collected, analyzed, and shared with the college in a return week presentation titled "QEP Implementation Results and Challenges."

C. Results

The results from the Spring 2013 implementation are as listed below.

	Early Thinker	Beginning Thinker	Practicing Thinker	Advancing Thinker
DREA 0093	0%	12%	39%	59%
PSYT 1313	13%	22%	26%	20%
EDUC 1300	9%	13%	30%	56%
ENGL 1301	21%	30%	33%	14%

Based on the results, the QEP leads have identified improvement strategies and will modify toolkits and assessment for a second round of implementation in Spring 2014. The implementation plan for Spring 2014 will also include a new cohort of courses. ECC plans to scale up its implementation to all General Education courses by Spring 2016. To make sure that faculty members are equipped to teach critical thinking using the planned methodology, ECC will develop a professional development program, the CT3 Academy, to train faculty members and provide faculty members professional development credit to be certified as experts in teaching critical thinking. ECC also intends to provide graduation honors to students who exhibit strong critical thinking abilities.

D. Who is Responsible for the On-going Efforts Related to Issue/Challenge?

This initiative is led by ECC's QEP Director, Deva Arumugam. The QEP Director with the help of three college committees that were put in place by the President's Cabinet will continue the implementation efforts. Below are the committees and their charges:

- 1. QEP Implementation Team 2013/2014
 - Committee members: QEP Director and 14 full time faculty members Committee Charge: Develop critical thinking toolkits, design assessment for the toolkits developed, train faculty to use the toolkit, and gather data.
- 2. QEP Core Academy Team Committee members: QEP Director and 10 full time faculty members Committee Charge: Plan CT3 Academy
- 3. QEP Advisory Board Committee members: QEP Director, Instructional Deans, and QEP Cochair.

Richland Collegiate High School

Richland Collegiate High School (RCHS) received from the Texas Education Agency (TEA) a "Met Standard" rating, which is TEA's highest possible accountability rating.

Performance Index Summary

Index	Points	Maximum	Index
	Earned	Points	Score
Student Achievement	915	918	100
Student Progress	N/A*	N/A*	N/A*
Closing Performance Gaps	1,200	1,200	100
Postsecondary Readiness	774	800	97

^{*} The Performance Index Summary is based on the State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness (STARR) results. RCHS seniors were the last class of students to take the previous TEA-required test, the Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills (TAKS). As a result, RCHS was not eligible to receive points on the Student Progress Index.

System Safeguards

The disaggregated performance results of the state accountability system serve as the basis of safeguards for the accountability system to ensure that poor performance in one area of one student group is not masked in the performance index.

The disaggregated performance measures and safeguard targets are calculated for performance rates, participation rates, and graduation rates of eleven student groups: All students; seven racial/ethnic groups--African American, American Indian, Asian, Hispanic, Pacific Islander, White, and Two or More Races; Economically Disadvantaged; Students with Disabilities; and English Language Learners.

Number and Percent of Indicators Met

Performance Rates	24 out of 24 = 100%
Participation Rates	12 out of 12 = 100%
Graduation Rates	5 out of 5 = 100%

Met Federal Limits on	1 out of 1	= 100%
Alternative Assessments
Total	42 out of 42	2 = 100%

RCHS also received a "Distinction Designation" in Reading/English Language Arts and Mathematics. Distinction Designations recognize outstanding academic achievement in Reading/English Language Arts and Mathematics on various indicators of postsecondary readiness. RCHS achieved scores in the top quartile (top 25%) in relation to its campus comparison group.

RCHS will host a Region 10 Education Service Center training session on the Public Education Information Management System (PEIMS) on October 4. All public schools included in Region 10's service area are invited to attend. This will provide RCHS and Richland College the opportunity to strengthen the relationship with area public high schools.

NOTES

A column titled "Control Limits" appears in the two spreadsheets, Revenues & Additions and Expenditures & Uses by Function, to illustrate the method of analysis. This column contains plus and minus two standard deviations of the mean for each line item. If the entry is "n/a", this is a line item that aggregates differently in the new format for the budget report and/or there is no historical data yet available.

- (1) General Revenue has exceeded 100% of budget due to tuition installment plan administrative and late fees.
- (2) & (5) Restricted Fund State Appropriations for Insurance & Retirement Match currently shows greater than 100% for both revenue and expenditures. There was an increase in state appropriations that was not reflected as part of the budget revision process. Adjusting entries will be made to revenue and expenditures during the year-end process.
- (3) Richland Collegiate High School State Funding has reached 100% of budget because TEA increased Foundation School Program (FSP) State Funding.
- (4) Public Service has reached 100% of budget due to a contract with Skills Development Fund (SDF) that provided training services to AT&T. This was for phase II of the project.
- (6) Tuition to Debt Service Fund reflects the final transfer of unrestricted funds to debt service.

Notice of Grant Awards (October 2013)

Most of the grants in the Notice of Grant Awards report are from government agencies. Occasionally, a private donor may direct a gift to DCCCD rather than to DCCCD Foundation, Inc., in which case the gift from the private donor is included in Notice of Grant Awards.

Funding agencies define fiscal years for each grant, which often do not align with DCCCD's fiscal year. DCCCD administers grants in accordance with requirements of the funding agency and its own policies and procedures.

GLOSSARY OF INVESTMENT TERMS

Agency: A security that is issued with an implied or actual pledge of the credit of the U.S. government. The agency is a department of the government or a pseudoagency that is providing a governmental function (e.g., SLMA, FHLB).

Arbitrage: Arbitrage involves the simultaneous purchase of a security in one market and the sale of it or a derivative product in another market to profit from price differentials between the two markets. As used in municipal finance, it represents the spread between bond interest rates and the interest rate on investments of proceeds. Generally these earnings are limited by IRS requirements to spend proceeds quickly, usually within 24 months.

Basis point: 1/100th of a point (i.e., 50 basis points = .50 % or one half of one percent).

Bond: A long-term promissory note in which the issuer agrees to pay the owner the amount of the face value on a future date and to pay interest at a specified rate at regular intervals.

Broker/dealer: An individual or firm who acts as an intermediary between a buyer and seller, usually charging a commission.

Call: The right to redeem outstanding bonds before their scheduled maturity.

Coupon: The stated interest payment that is based on the face amount of a fixed income security. This amount is usually redeemable at a specific date for a specific payment.

Delivery vs. payment: The control feature that will not allow a security to be paid unless the security is delivered in the exact amount of value as the payment. This transaction usually involves a third party, usually the safekeeping department of a bank.

Discount: The amount of reduction from the face of a fixed income security to compensate for the difference in coupon price and the market value.

GASB 31: A pronouncement by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board that required a "mark to market" for the value of investments on a regular basis, with a recognition of gains or losses contemporaneously by booking an unrealized gain or loss.

GO bond: A bond which is supported by general obligation tax revenues of a governmental entity.

Liquidity: The liquidity of a security is the ease with which the market can absorb volume buying or selling without dramatic fluctuation in price, i.e., ease of entry/exit into/from a market.

Market value: The market value of a security is the last-sale price multiplied by total units outstanding. It is calculated throughout the trading day and is related to the total value of the index.

Maturity: The date that a security comes due. The issuer must pay the holder the face amount of the security.

Municipal bonds: Bonds issued by states, cities, counties, and towns to fund public capital projects like roads, schools, sanitation facilities, bridges, as well as operating budgets. These bonds are exempt from federal taxation and from state and local taxes for the investors who reside in the state where the bond is issued.

Premium: The amount of extra price that is added above the face of a fixed income security to compensate for the difference in coupon price and the market value (which takes into consideration the current interest market compared to the stated coupon).

Repurchase agreement: Agreement between a seller and a buyer, usually of agency or treasury securities, where the seller agrees to repurchase the securities at an agreed upon price and date. A "flex-repo" allows periodic draws against the overall value without a complete repurchase of all principal values.

Revenue bond: A bond which is supported by pledged revenues of the entity.

Settlement: The conclusion of a securities transaction; a broker/dealer buying securities pays for them; a selling broker delivers the securities to the buyer's broker.

Treasury: A security that is issued with the full faith and credit of the United States government.

Underwriter: An investment banker who assumes the risk of bringing a new securities issue to market. The underwriter will buy the issue from the issuer and guarantee sale of a certain number of shares to investors; this is firm-commitment underwriting. To spread the risk of purchasing the issue, the underwriter often will form a syndicate (underwriting group, purchase group) among other investment firms. If the investment firm is unwilling to buy the issue outright, other underwriting forms may be used.

Unrealized gain or loss: The amount of difference between market value and book value of securities recorded on the financial records of an entity. The amount is an unrealized gain if market value is higher than book value. If the market value is lower than the book value, an unrealized loss is recorded. The amount is unrealized until such time as the security or asset is actually sold by the investor, at which time the amount of difference between market and book values is realized. A security held to maturity will not ever realize a gain or loss.

Report of Sabbatical Leave during Spring Semester 2013 Giraud Polite, Brookhaven College October 1, 2013

Purpose of the Sabbatical

The purpose of this sabbatical was to explore new approaches to integrating service learning inside the classroom through art. I spent my time interviewing service-learning experts, reading literature, and attending a service-learning conference. This was a tremendous experience that allowed me to connect my research to meaningful and creative projects I plan to employ within the classroom. In his book How to Steal Like an Artist, author Austin Kleon states, "Don't wait until you know who you are to get started." Evoking these words raises the question of how do students practice what they learn beyond the classroom — before they graduate? To put this into perspective, Brookhaven Visual Communications students historically have waited until their internship or capstone course experience to apply what they have learned in class. This delayed application approach may work well in university programs in which the areas of concentration within a chosen disciple are spread out over a number of years, but at the community college level—especially in technical occupational programs such as Visual Communications—I have found that our students work better under stricter time constraints. Incidentally, through the aforementioned literature review, conferences, personal experiences, and prior interviews with field experts, I have discovered that service learning has the ability to provide students an opportunity to exercise what they have learned in the classroom sooner, while serving their neighbors. Eventually they can find out more about who they are and what they know, all the while engaging in projects which assist their communities.

Results

As a direct result of the sabbatical experience, I was able to

- Expand my knowledge of visual communications through service learning;
- Utilize newly found information to produce a comprehensive service learning course component in Visual Communications;
- Build partnerships with local agencies;
- Share this information with my colleagues.

Ultimately the utilization of service-learning projects in general has the opportunity to provide students with an understanding of how to live well with others. The main objective is for them to achieve the ability to make a difference and to have the knowledge, skills, and motivation to become an agent of change.

Moreover, students gain an awareness of the equity amongst their chosen communities, specifically identifying certain human needs. Finally, they will achieve success if they are able to first see themselves as the aforementioned agents for social change, and next have an understanding of the implications of the change, and lastly are able to realize the perceived value in assisting these communities.

Overall, I have designed a visual project that charges students with the responsibility of producing a non-fictional narrative film short based on a community need. In order to unearth prior knowledge and to establish focus for the project, a pre-assignment survey of student awareness to their communities' current need and potential future issues will precede the production of the video. Subsequently, students will follow the instructions given throughout the pre-production, production, and post-production processes. In all, a creative work critique will be given in order to evaluate the success of the student work related to their service learning choice. This project will be shared with faculty and staff within the Visual Communications department and serve as model for others to follow.
